The game: Michigan's WinFall.

> No jackpot winner? The money "rolled down" to smaller prizes.

On a roll-down week:

MATCH 3

$5 → $50

MATCH 4

$100 → $1,000

A $1 ticket was worth more than $1.

First try: 2,200 tickets. He lost a little.

> He trusted the average, not one result.

Then he scaled it.

> Michigan's WinFall, then Massachusetts' Cash WinFall.

OVER SEVERAL YEARS

The totals:

~$8M

net profit on about $27M of tickets

MIT students found it too. Then the games shut down.

> After the Boston Globe reported it. No one was charged.

YOUR TAKEAWAY

Before any bet, ask what $1 is worth.

1. Find the average payout per $1
2. Normal lottery draws: less than $1
3. Only scale what the math backs
