NIKKEI 225

Japan's stock market peaked in 1989. It took 34 years to get back.

@bino_da_producer

Swipe →

Buy at the top and you waited 34 years and 2 months

> Just to break even on price.

December 29, 1989

38,915.87

Nikkei 225 close

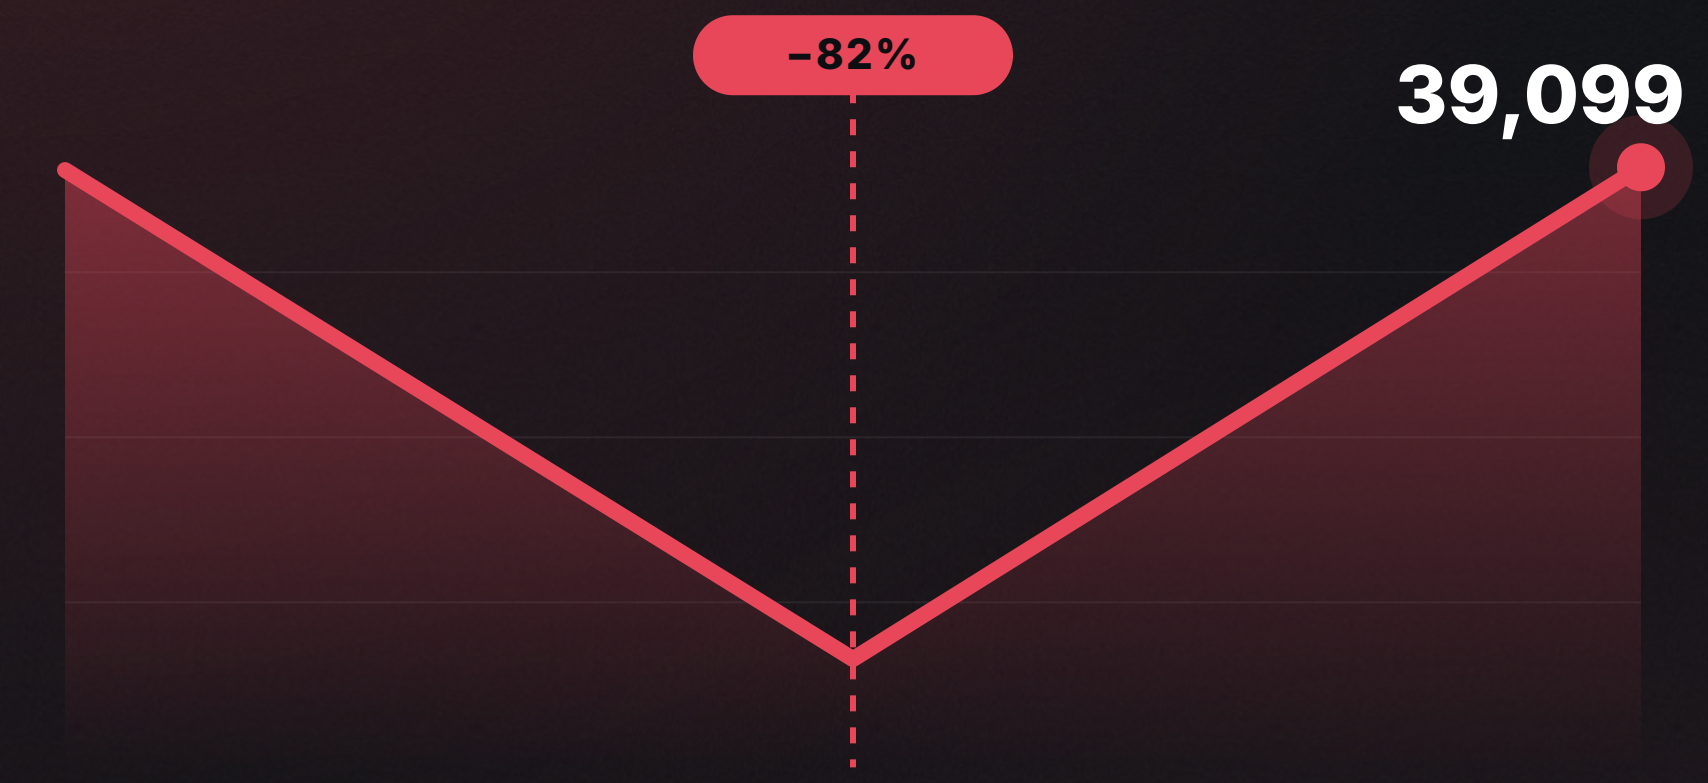
Late 1980s: stocks and land soared. Then the bubble burst.

📈 Stocks soar

🏙️ Land soars

💥 Bubble bursts

Three documented dates



Nikkei 225 closes on these three dates only; no in-between values shown.

March 2009

7,054.98

about 82% below the 1989 peak

February 22, 2024

39,098.68

first record close since 1989

"Stocks always come back" is not a schedule.

ALL IN ONE MARKET

You wait on one country

SPREAD OUT

No single country decides

SAVE THIS

Protect yourself from a 34-year wait:

1. Spread across countries
2. Invest steadily, not all at once
3. Count dividends, not just price